

| May 2012 |

2Know

KM Newsletter

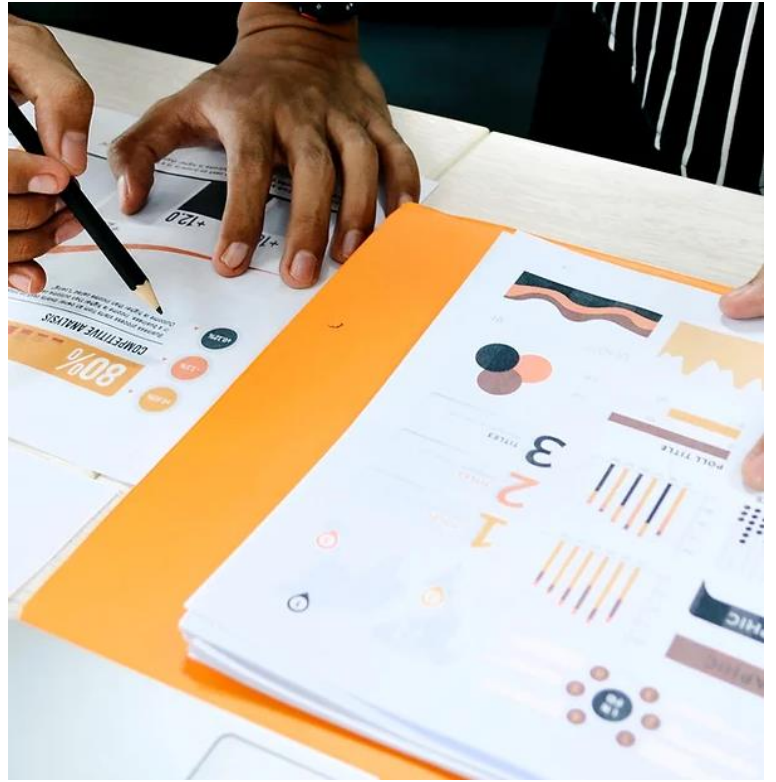

ROM News

01

Natural User Experience

A natural user interface utilizes gestures, movement, facial expressions, and touch for technology control. It offers wide usability and is poised to replace graphic interfaces in the future.

To full article

To full article

02

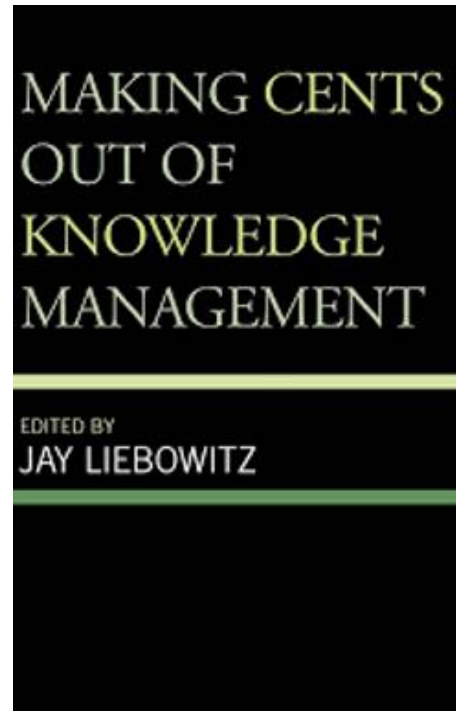

Central and Distributional: forming information directory crews

When upgrading knowledge directories, organizations can choose between a central model (homogenous team) or a distributed model (content editors associated with units). The choice depends on organizational size, complexity, and stage of setup. Regular review and adaptation are recommended.

03

Making Cents out of Knowledge Management - Book Review

"Making Cents out of Knowledge Management" by Jay Liebowitz explores the ROI and value of knowledge management. Divided into two parts, the book provides methodological insights and case studies from diverse organizations worldwide. It's a recommended read, offering a rich collection of practical wisdom on knowledge management.

To full article